THE RISE OF THE CITY

Spatial Dynamics in the Urban Century

Edited by Karima Kourtit, KTH Royal Institute of Technology, Sweden and Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland, Peter Nijkamp, VU University, Amsterdam, the Netherlands and Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland and Roger R. Stough, George Mason University, US

Cities and city regions are growing throughout the world and this trend is forecast to continue well into the 21st century. The authors of The Rise of the City see the next 100 years as being the "Urban Century". In this book they examine urban growth and the dynamics that are transforming the city and city regions, focusing specifically on the spatial aspects of this process.

CITIES AND PRIVATE PLANNING

Property Rights, Entrepreneurship and Transaction Costs

Edited by David Emanuel Andersson, Nottingham University Business School, China and Stefano Moroni, Politecnico di Milano, Italy

'Not so very long ago the notion of private city planning would have been of interest to only a few die-hard libertarians. This book shows why no serious analysis of the forces shaping cities across the world today can neglect the role of private planning and the potential it might have to deliver more live-able urban places.'

THE REGIONAL AND URBAN POLICY OF THE EUROPEAN UNION NEW IN PAPERBACK

Cohesion, Results-Oriented and Smart Specialisation

Philip McCann, University of Groningen, the Netherlands

'Professor Philip McCann has contributed to a revival of regional and urban economics. His ideas and research have stimulated views about how regions and cities grow, and also how they can be better governed. He offers here another major contribution to improved regional policy design. By its scale and scope, EU regional policy reform merits a thorough and enlightening analysis such as this. This is an important book by one of the finest scholars in the field.'

– Joaquim Oliveira Martins, Head of OECD Regional Policy Division, France

URBAN ECONOMICS AND URBAN POLICY

Challenging Conventional Policy Wisdom

Paul C. Cheshire, London School of Economics and Political Science, Max Nathan, London School of Economics and Political Science and National Institute of Economic and Social Research and Henry G. Overman, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

In this bold, exciting and readable volume, Paul Cheshire, Max Nathan and Henry Overman illustrate the insights that recent economic research brings to our understanding of cities, and the lessons for urban policy-making. The authors present new evidence on the fundamental importance of cities to economic wellbeing and to the enrichment of our lives.

HEALTHY CITIES

Public Health through Urban Planning

Chinmoy Sarkar and Chris Webster, University of Hong Kong and John Gallacher, University of Oxford, UK

Mounting scientific evidence generated over the past decade highlights the significant role of our cities' built environments in shaping our health and well-being. In this book, the authors conceptualize the 'urban health niche' as a novel approach to public health and healthy-city planning that integrates the diverse and multi-level health determinants present in a city system.
